Missionaries to New England

Ninth Edition – September 2026

Support: 16.5%

To our fellowlaborers in Christ,

Overview. This past month, God has been blessing with fellowship with many churches that have a similar desire to see churches planted in New England.

New York. After we left the Maryland/Virginia area, we drove to New York City to visit Way of the Cross Baptist Church in Queens. Alan Bradley is one of the church-planters that our sending church supports, so it was a blessing to see them again and see how God is blessing their church. The fellowship was sweet, and we were even able to visit some cool parts of NYC, since Naomi had never been there.

New England. After leaving New York, we drove to New Hampshire, where we stayed for the remainder of September. We were able to meet with several churches in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, all of which have a great desire to see more churches planted. We were able to glean much from the pastors and church-planters already in New England to find out more of what the ministry there is going to look like. One great benefit was visiting a church in Worcester, Massachusetts, which gave us insight into what the inner-city ministry looks like, which will be similar to what we will be doing in Lowell. We were able also to speak with the pastor of that church in Worcester for 2 hours, learning from his ministry in ways that we may be able to apply to the church-planting ministry in Lowell in a couple years. Another opportunity we took was to travel to all 6 state capitols of the states of New England to get pictures and videos and to see what the different areas are like. It was a unique experience, and we can now say firsthand that each of the states have a different culture, despite being so close together.

New Growth. Being away from our sending church for two months, I had to find a new place to get my hair cut, and if you've seen my type of hair, finding the right barber is a task in and of itself. I found one in Haverhill, MA, where I was able to have a conversation with the barber and two young men who recently got saved. Diego, one of the two young men, is interested about God, hungry for His Word, but needs a church that will disciple him and help him grow in his understanding. He has a zeal that is typically only found in new converts. His past life is rough, but pray that he will find a church that preaches the truth of the Word of God. Pray also that as we travel, we would have more of these types of encounters with people so that people hear the Gospel, receive Christ, and live the Christian life. God is still saving and calling Christians to the ministry, and He is still using us to reach people as we travel on deputation.

Support Update. Our support level rose by one church, which is always a blessing. The last few months of summer and early fall have not been producing that specific fruit, but has been encouraging and spiritually bountiful nonetheless. Continue to pray that God would raise our support, because He is the only One Who can!

Setting Meetings. Looking into next year, our meetings list is sparse, but such is the case in deputation. Pray that we will be able to set many meetings for 2027 and have abundant growth in support and fellowlaborers.

In Christ,

Andrew, Naomi, and Joseph Adams
